General Star Offers Admitted Architects & Engineers Product in New York and New Jersey

Stamford, CT, November 10, 2010 ... General Star announces the availability of its Architects and Engineers Professional Liability program on an admitted basis in New York and New Jersey. This new feature is part of General Star's nationwide A & E program, launched in January 2009. The sole program administrator remains Professional Coverage Managers, New York, NY.

Additional expansion of the admitted product to other states is in progress.

The program is written on a primary basis and targeted at small to mid-size firms with receipts up to $10,000,000. Worldwide coverage is included, with limits of up to $5,000,000 available.

The program provides competitive coverage for traditional A&E exposures, as well as a number of automatic enhancements that address modern business risks faced by professionals, such as privacy and information security.

"We are pleased to bring an admitted product to the A&E marketplace, further enhancing the options available to our architect and engineer customers" said Scott Ginsberg, A&E Product Leader for General Star.

"General Star is delighted to add this latest evolution to the products available within our A&E program," added Patricia Roberts, President and CEO of General Star. "We listened to our program administrator and its retail clients, delivering a valued alternative."
